Hui Soo Chae
Icebreaker
Phase 1

Introduce yourself to your group members. What are you studying? Why are you taking this class? What do you hope to learn? Where were you before TC?

Assign everyone a letter (A, B, C, D, E)
Phase 2
Phase 2

In your groups, discuss:

- How would you teach your topic to a 5th grade class?
- What experiences or prior knowledge influence how you approach your topic?
- How would you evaluate student learning?
- How would you evaluate your approach?
Phase 3

Borrowing and Branding in Online Education
by Gary Natriello in Distance Learning

The Harvard Business School online program provides a good example of direct borrowing of a campus-based pedagogy for online delivery, and a recent change in branding seems to have confirmed that fidelity to the campus [...]
Description: The American Curriculum Collection provides in-depth coverage of curricula adopted by American states, cities, and school districts in the twentieth century. These detailed outlines of the curriculum, in such standard subjects as English, social studies, and mathematics, and in such specialized areas as vocational education, drug education, and adult education, are evidence of the intended content and methods of instruction and of the diffusion through the nation's schools of changing educational approaches and emphases. The American Curriculum Collection have been scanned, uploaded, described, and tagged for the social, digital archive. This project builds upon others that serve to expand and enhance access to the Gottesman Libraries historical collections. #TCcurriculumstudies
